

Incantation

Heaven is an empty house with sun streaming in, white clouds that gather, part, silently re-form and thunder, rain; drops rustle birds in the trees, wind weaves light under leaves and drifts through the open door where you are, and you are there and you are there, with me.

~Rachel White